Retail Prices Index

The Retail Prices Index for the quarter ended 31 March 2022 has now been completed.

The Index has increased by 1.7% to 110.677. The change in the Index over the year to 31 March 2022 has been +5.2%.

Date	Index	Quarterly % Increase/ (Decrease)	Annual % Increase/ (Decrease)
31.03.2021	105.248	1.3%	(0.7%)
30.06.2021	106.317	1.0%	3.3%
30.09.2021	107.227	0.9%	2.8%
31.12.2021	108.853	1.5%	4.8%
31.03.2022	110.677	1.7%	5.2%

The rise in fuel and power prices (including vehicle fuel) explains just under half of the annual change in inflation – with the remainder made by a growth in price of “all other items” (i.e. when excluding fuel and power items as well as food and non-alcoholic beverages). Fuel and power prices have less impact on quarterly inflation compared to previous quarters, as the rate of price growth in that category has slowed in contrast to the growth rate witnessed throughout 2021.

In contrast to the preceding two quarters, when there was no evidence of inflation in the “Food and non-alcoholic beverages” category; changes in prices in this category during the first quarter of 2022 contributed +0.6 percentage points to quarterly inflation and +0.5% to annual inflation.

The data points to an acceleration of price growth compared to previous quarters; although much of the year-over-year growth can be attributed to “base effects” on fuel prices, that is, fuel price inflation today is mainly due to the low fuel prices recorded in 2020, in the aftermath of the Covid-19 shock.

Comparing the Index with its level two years ago helps circumvent the impact of “base effects” due to the 2020 deflationary shock. The Retail Prices Index is 4.4% higher in Quarter 1 of 2022 than in the same quarter two years ago (Quarter 1 of 2020) - corresponding to an annualised rate of growth of +2.2%.

M. A. M. DALY-LLAMOSAS,
for Director, Policy and Economic Development.
