Photographic guidelines and parameters

The purpose of the competition is for FIG to gather options for photographs for an outdoor photographic exhibition to mark the 40th anniversary of the liberation of the Falkland Islands. Judges are particularly looking for images and perspectives that have not been seen before, so entries which clearly demonstrate creativity and originality are especially welcomed.

All winners will receive a framed copy of their winning image and will have their work featured in the outdoor exhibition; images will also be used to showcase the 40th anniversary as outlined above.

Intellectual Property

1. Entrants affirm their submissions are their own work and do not violate the intellectual property rights of any other person or entity.
2. Submissions become the sole property of FIG and may be used for any FIG purposes in print and online, including but not limited to display on FIG digital channels, including websites and social media accounts, posters, promotional materials and merchandise, booklets and other materials. However, photographers will, of course, be credited wherever their image(s) are used.
3. FIG shall have the right to adapt, edit, modify, or otherwise use the winning submissions in part or in their entirety in whatever manner it deems appropriate.
4. FIG reserves the right to choose not to use the winning entries as described in these guidelines.
